About the Author

Markus Zusak once upon a time was a house painter, a janitor and a high school English teacher. The youngest of four children born to a German mother and Austrian father in Sydney, Australia in 1975, during an interview with Publishers Weekly, he recalled the family memories that sparked the writing of The Book Thief. He remembered the bombing of Munich through his mother's eyes, "Everything was red, like the sky was on fire. That was a memory that I could see really clearly as a child, a very visual image." He remembered the teenage boy who offered a crust of bread to an emaciated Jew being forced through the streets. He remembered that boy being whipped by a soldier who witnessed the act of compassion. And at the end of the interview he is grateful for his parents "...Lisa and Helmut Zusak for the stories we find hard to believe, for laughter, and for showing me another side." And so Marcus began writing when he was sixteen years old, completing his first manuscript at eighteen, "I always had stories in my head. So I started writing them." The Book Thief, translated into more than 40 languages, has propelled Markus Zusak into the limelight as one of the most successful Australian authors. The book has been recognized with many prestigious literary awards and has been adapted into a major motion picture.

Characters

Choose three to 4 each week. Use bullet form to note interesting, important, and new information you learn about the characters as you read. Describe such things as their personality and appearance, including details about the way they act, think, and feel. Include page numbers to reference passages that support your findings. Whenever applicable, include quotes in preparation for the culminating essay.

Themes, Symbols & Motifs

As you read, themes, symbols and motifs will be woven throughout.

For themes, use bullet form to note examples from the following pool as they appear in the story. Include specific opinions of how each example contributes to your understanding of the theme. Quote passages and cite page numbers in preparation for the culminating essay as you go.

For symbols, make note of the examples (citing the page number) and what each might represent in the context of what you are reading.

For motifs, make note as examples appear and recur (citing the page number) and explore how each might relate to the central idea of the story.

examples to develop your essay.

Use one or more of the following questions as a springboard to respond thoughtfully to what you have read.

The resources on the following pages will help you give form and structure to your writing.

1. An archetype is a typical character, action, symbol, theme, or situation that represents something universal. Explore the archetypes you encounter in this story. Give specific

- 2. Choose three themes, three symbols, or three motifs (or one of each), and explore the significance of each in the story. Use passages from the story to support your ideas.
- 3. Do some research on a courageous person from WWII. Compare that person to a heroic character from the story. What do you learn about courage and cowardice from each? What is the difference between courage and heroism?
- 4. Exploring history helps us to gain understanding of the human condition—our very self and the self of others. The Book Thief takes us by the hand and guides us on a very dark journey of humans in conflict during the period when Germany was occupied by the Nazi regime. What lessons should be remembered from the Holocaust and why?
- 5. Explore some poems where death is personified. Read John Donne's sonnet, "Death Be Not Proud," and another sonnet by Edna St. Vincent Millay called, "And You as Well Must Die." Read some less formal poems such as Emily Dickinson's "Because I Could Not Stop for Death," Rainer Maria Rilke's "Death," or "My Number," by Billy Collins. In what ways is Death similar within The Book Thief. How does the author's poetic choice to have Death narrate impact the storytelling? What is the effect of having Death serve as the narrator?
- 6. Watch The Book Thief in film form. Compare and contrast to the book.
- 7. What role do books play for the characters? Explore the symbolic significance of books in this story.
- 8. How does the novel explore the idea of family? How is family defined at the beginning of the novel and how does it transform by the end?
- 9. Which character do you think is most affected by the war, and how?
- 10. Explore the purpose, meaning and symbolic relevance of the book, The Word Shaker, that Max crafts for Liesel.
- 11. One of the most poignant comments made by Death comes near the closing of the story, "I am haunted by humans." Trace the steps of the narrator over the course of the story. How does the arc of this character, Death, surprise you?

Structure of an Essay

INTRODUCTION

The first paragraph of an essay invites the reader into the writer's big idea. The essay begins with a general statement called the hook that grabs the reader's attention. The second sentence of your introduction provides context and sets the stage for your big idea. The introduction ends with a very important sentence called the thesis statement that clearly states the big idea and introduces the three sub-topics you will be using to support it.

BODY

The body of the essay consists of three paragraphs, structured according to a blueprint, which will fully develop the three sub-topics of the thesis statement and allow the reader to explore the architecture of the writer's big idea.

The last paragraph of the essay opens with a sentence that weaves the subtopics together and leads the reader to the next sentence, an echo of the thesis statement. The essay ends with a thought provoking sentence called the twist that will leave the reader with a memorable snapshot of the writer's big idea.
